

Threat Risk Assessments

In today's expanding and evolving environment, every business must invest in security to manage and mitigate its risk exposure. With the wide array of solutions and services available, it can be a significant challenge to determine what measures are needed. In challenging economic times, it is particularly important to ensure that security is a business enabler and that an organization's security expenditure is optimized relative to its needs.

G4S Canada's Corporate Risk Services Division was created to provide independent, object security advice, consultancy, analysis and guidance, backed by the organizational knowledge and support of the world's largest security solutions provider.

Our bench of board-certified highly experienced security consultants provides analysis, assessments and recommendations in multiple areas of security including security management, physical security and Critical Infrastructure Protection.

We work regularly in coordination with our clients at all levels within their organization, and ensure that businesses are effectively and efficiently protected against risk beyond their tolerance or appetite.

Our threat risk assessment process employs a proprietary multi-dimensional analysis method, customized to the needs of the Canadian marketplace. Whatever the risk tolerance or organizational exposure of the business, our consultants work in coordination with our clients to determine appropriate security strategies, programs and countermeasures.

We work with clients of all sizes, across the public and private sectors to deliver the services our clients need to keep them within legal, regulatory, financial and business constraints.
